Interim management report

Strategic overview

Frontier Developments is a leading developer of video games. Frontier has a proven track record of software technology development and innovation spanning several decades of rapid technological change. The Group has leveraged its technology to develop innovative video games across a wide variety of different game genres and platforms, and has established relationships with globally renowned partners.

Frontier's proprietary Cobra software technology supports modern multi-core CPU and GPU architectures of PC, console, tablet and smartphone platforms with a modular, high performance system that is applicable across a wide range of game genres and offers state of the art efficiency, visual fidelity, multiplayer capability and other cloud-based technologies.

Frontier is in a transitional phase evolving into a business which develops and licenses technology to support Frontier's own self-published game titles, games for major external publishers, and other developers.

Elite: Dangerous Frontier's first major self published title was publically released on 16 December 2014 selling directly to customers as a digital download through Frontier's own e-commerce platform.

The key pillars of the Group's strategy are:

- Continue to focus on the development of Elite: Dangerous, launch it on new platforms and release enhanced versions of the game.
- Develop a second major self published franchise.
- Invest significant resources in the development of the Group's technology for third party use
- Continue to work with key industry partners.

The Group is pleased to report significant progress in executing the transition of the business in line with its strategy.

Business review

Elite: Dangerous

In the period, Frontier completed a successful Beta phase for Elite: Dangerous where increasingly refined development builds of the game were released to early-access customers, which drove a significant increase in customers and pre-order sales.

Frontier demonstrated Elite: Dangerous at the E3 industry show in Los Angeles in June, at Gamescom (Köln, August) and Eurogamer Expo (London, September). A successful preview event was held at the Imperial War Museum, Duxford in November, and the game was released on 16 December 2014.

At release, Elite: Dangerous had around 200,000 early access and pre-order customers, consequently 55% of Group revenues recognised for the period were from self-published titles (up from 3% in the previous period).

Following the period end a further 100,000 downloads of Elite: Dangerous were sold over the Christmas period.

Frontier continued to promote the game in January 2015, with demonstrations at CES (Las Vegas) PAX South (Austin) and other events.

Interim management report

Elite: Dangerous 1.1, which adds significant gameplay opportunities for players working together via Community Goals and features German, French and Russian localisation, was released on 10 February 2015 as a free update to all customers.

Frontier also announced Elite: Dangerous 1.2, a second free expansion which further enhances multiplayer aspects of the game, would be released in March 2015 and that an early-access Beta program for the Apple Mac version of Elite: Dangerous will start in March 2015.

Further Cobra technology developments

Frontier continued to enhance its Cobra technology to support the development of Elite: Dangerous and its other games, with the main focus being on deploying Frontier's innovative multi-player networking client / server technology in a real-world, high user number environment.

Over the course of its life to date, Frontier's distribution of Elite: Dangerous from its own website to customers having Frontier accounts has allowed the company to retain almost 100% of revenue, which would otherwise have been reduced to around 70% using third party distribution. Frontier continues to review additional distribution opportunities for Elite: Dangerous to drive incremental sales.

Key industry partnerships

In the period, Frontier announced its development of Tales from Deep Space with Amazon Game Studios. This game was launched in October 2014 as an exclusive for Amazon Kindle Fire devices.

Development of the ScreamRide Xbox One and Xbox 360 title for Microsoft continued, with the game being announced at the Gamescom consumer show (Köln, August) and demonstrated at the Eurogamer Expo (London, September). A release date of 6 March 2015 was subsequently confirmed.

Coaster Park Tycoon

As the Tales from Deep Space and ScreamRide projects were completed, the Group was able to further invest its resources in its transition.

On 26 January 2015, following the period end, Frontier announced the start of development of a new self-published game called Coaster Park Tycoon.

This will run as a second franchise alongside continued development of the Elite: Dangerous franchise.

Frontier became the acknowledged leading developer of Tycoon games for its work on the RollerCoaster Tycoon franchise, particularly its development of 2004's c.10M unit-selling PC game RollerCoaster Tycoon 3 which is still considered the benchmark of the Tycoon genre, more than ten years after its release.

Coaster Park Tycoon, scheduled for 2016 release on PC, is intended to raise that benchmark for 'Tycoon' gameplay even further by combining accessible creative features with a sophisticated simulation.

Current Trading and Outlook

In the year ended 31 May 2015 the Group will continue to focus on promotion of and development of additional platforms for and versions of Elite: Dangerous, and continue to invest significant resources in the development of its technology. The Group will also start the development of a second major franchise, as well as continuing to work with key industry partners.

With its business emphasis on two major self-published franchises, Elite: Dangerous and Coaster Park Tycoon, after the period end in January 2015 Frontier re-focussed its development activities in Cambridge where the expertise in these franchises lies. Development roles were moved from Halifax, Nova Scotia to Cambridge, and the overall staffing mix changed to match the needs of these two projects. 15 content creation roles were made redundant in Cambridge (from 281 total headcount), while Frontier continues to recruit in areas such as game and technology programming, server and web front end development.

As stated in the January trading update, the Board expects a doubling of reported revenue to approximately £19m for the full financial year.

Interim management report

Group Financial Performance

The Group, using the investment secured at the time of its IPO in 2013 has delivered its first major strategic step of its transition with the public release of Elite: Dangerous in December 2014.

The Board considers that the most appropriate way of illustrating the performance of Frontier through this transition phase toward becoming a full-fledged publisher of computer games, supported by proprietary technology, is through a statement of cash flows. The consolidated statement of cash flows is the first primary statement displayed in the financial statements.

Looking at the financial performance in the first six months of the financial year, to 30 November 2014, cash and cash equivalents increased by £1.3m (30 November 2013: £4.0m). With the focus on investing our own technology and IP, the cash flow attributed to the pre orders and sales of Elite: Dangerous was £5.7m (2013: £0.1m), development, marketing and direct support costs incurred were £5.0m (2013: £1.1m).

Revenues increased 44% compared with prior year as 'early access' versions of Elite: Dangerous were delivered. Revenue recognition of 'early access' versions of the game and some £2.0m of deferred revenue in November associated with fulfilment of pledges for early stage backers was offset by pre release amortisation of the project and a marketing push prior to full release in December, as a result the Group incurred an operating loss of £1.9m (2013: £1.6m). EBITDA improved to £0.5m in comparison with a loss in the equivalent period last year of £0.4m. Deferred income at the end of November 2014 was £3.3m (2013: £1.6m).

Cash and Cashflow

The Group generated £3.8m from continuing operations and cash equivalents, invested £2.7m and raised from financing activities £0.2m net resulting in a net increase in cash of £1.3m to £10.0m at the period end. Interest free loan balances at fair value were £0.2m resulting in reported net cash of £9.8m (2013: £11.0m).

Revenue

Frontier recorded a 44% increase in revenue in the six months to November 2014 to £7.3m. The beta and gamma test versions of Elite: Dangerous were available to customers in the period with the full public release being in December. The gamma version fulfilled the digital content pledges leaving product pre-orders to be recognised as revenue in December. Merchandise sales of £0.1m (2013: £nil) have been recognised under self published revenues.

In the interim period we released Tales from Deep Space with Amazon, and continued to develop Screamride with Microsoft due for release in March 2015. Post balance sheet, another contract was cancelled by the Customer, however revenue recognised was similar to the initial contract value. Royalty income continued to accrue with Atari Interactive Inc. (Atari), the distributor of RollerCoasterTycoon 3 and on Kinect Disneyland Adventures via Microsoft. In the prior year deferred royalties from Atari interactive were recognised whilst they emerged from Chapter 11.

The overall gross margin rose to 7% from 5%. The Group has a number of revenue and cost streams where it is able to identify contribution towards gross profit:

Of this revenue £3.8m (2013: £0.1m) was for digital content and £0.1m (2013: £nil) associated merchandise and ancillary sales. Deferred revenue of £3.3m (2013: £1.6m) was carried forward, 70% of which is to be released at launch, and the remainder matched with physical product sales in 2015, and future content releases (expansion passes).

Costs: Staff costs incurred were £1.8m (2013: £1.1m), overhead incurred including merchandise sub contract, marketing, payment system commissions and server costs were £1.4m (2013: £0.1m). Costs capitalised into intangible assets were £2.0m (2013: £1.1m) and pre release amortisation charged was £1.7m (2013: £0.1m for pre release amortisation and £0.5m of amortisation and impairment the Coaster Crazy franchise).

Amortisation for the acquired royalty streams of £5.1m and internal development costs of £5.5m have been combined and are to be amortised over a period up to four years on a straight line basis, as adjusted for assessments of useful economic life. Incremental development costs for releases on additional platforms, will be amortised similarly upon release.

Publisher

Publisher revenues are mainly derived from completion of milestones, £2.6m (2013: £3.3m) was recognised in the half year. The remaining revenue stems from sub contract recharges (which are passed on at nil margin) of £0.1m (2013: £0.3m), and additional staff time of £0.4m (2013: £0.5m) and work in progress adjustments of £nil (2013: £0.5m). At the half year work in progress balances were £0.2m (2013: £0.1m), and the remaining contracted milestone work is £0.8m, of which £0.4m relates to a project cancellation fee, cancelled at the Customer's request post period end.

Publisher cost of sales includes staff costs of £1.9m (2013: £2.7m), and sub contract costs of £0.1m (2013 £0.3m).

Royalties, Technology & Project support

The group receives royalties from Atari for RCT3 on a quarterly basis and Microsoft for Kinect Disneyland Adventures on a monthly basis. Revenue is accrued upon receipt of royalty reports. Technology costs are represented by the associated costs of our COBRA technology. Project support includes the functions of senior management (including executive Directors), marketing and customer support.

In the six month period to November 2014 these were: Staff costs of £1.1m (2013: £0.8m) and Overhead of £0.6m (2013: £0.4m). Costs of £0.4m (2013: £0.4m) were capitalised and amortisation charged represented £0.6m (2013: £0.4m).

Profitability and Adjusted EBITDA

During the transition phase of the business the Board monitors performance on an adjusted EBITDA basis. The adjusting items were primarily Share Based Compensation and funding costs associated with the IPO in the prior year.

There was an operating loss of £1.9m (2013: £1.6m). EBITDA turned positive to £0.5m (2013: negative (£0.4m)).

The condensed consolidated interim financial statements were approved by the Board of Directors for issue on

The condensed consolidated interim financial statements do not comprise statutory accounts within the meaning of section 434 of the Companies Act 2006. Statutory accounts for the year ended 31 May 2014 were approved by the Board of Directors on 13 September 2014 and delivered to the Registrar of Companies. The report of the auditors on those accounts was unqualified, did not contain an emphasis of matter paragraph and did not contain any statement under section 498 of the Companies Act 2006.

The condensed consolidated interim financial statements have been reviewed, not audited.

3. Basis of Preparation and Statement of Compliance

The condensed consolidated interim financial statements should be read in conjunction with the annual financial statements of the group and are prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards as adopted by the European Union (IFRSs as adopted by the EU) and the Companies Act 2006 applicable to companies reporting under IFRS.

Going concern basis

The Group's forecasts and projections, taking account of reasonably possible changes in trading performance, support the conclusion that there is a reasonable expectation that the Group has adequate resources to continue in operational existence for the foreseeable future, a period of not less than twelve months from the date of this financial information. The Group therefore continues to adopt the going concern basis in preparing its financial statements.

4. Accounting Policies

The accounting policies adopted in the preparation of the condensed consolidated interim financial statements are unchanged from those set out in the Group's consolidated financial statements for the year ended 31 May 2014. These policies have been consistently applied to all the periods presented.

The operations of the Group are not subject to significant seasonality.

5. Significant Accounting Estimates and Key Judgements

The preparation of interim financial statements requires management to make judgements, estimates and assumptions that affect the application of accounting policies and the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, income and expense. Actual results may differ from these estimates.

The key assumptions concerning the future and other key sources of estimation uncertainty that have a significant risk of causing a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities within the next financial year are discussed below. All other significant estimates and judgements remain the same as those included in the financial statements for the year ended May 2014:

a) Intangible assets

The Group invests heavily in research and development. The identification of development costs that meet the criteria for capitalisation is dependent on management's judgement and knowledge of the work done. Development costs of software tools within a project that can be utilised generically are separately identified. Judgements are based on the information available at each period end. Economic success of any development is assessed on a reasonable basis but remains uncertain at the time of recognition as it may be subject to future technical problems and therefore a review for indicators of impairment is completed by product at each period end date. The net book values of the Group and Company intangible assets including rights acquired, at 30 November 2014 are £11.2m (November 2013: £4.1m).

Intangible assets are subject to amortisation and reviewed for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount may not be recoverable, for example, a decision to suspend a self-published title under development.

An impairment loss is recognised for the amount by which the asset's carrying amount exceeds its recoverable amount. The recoverable amount is the higher of an asset's fair value less costs to sell and value in use. For the purposes of assessing impairment, assets are reviewed by project for which there are separately identifiable cash flows.

Games developed to be self-published are reviewed for impairment based on the status at the end of each financial year and at the half year against a prudent level of the projected net earnings.

In respect to amortisation, normally self published titles are amortised on completion of the game, however an exception to this occurs when project funding is obtained via innovative crowd-funded platforms, such as Kickstarter. Such funding is generally seen as 'contributing to make the game happen' and requires the company to set up a number of pledge levels which include a donation element. The pledge levels and any pre-orders of a game that include access to a number of 'early versions' of the game, an estimated and prudent cost of sale is applied as amortisation. In the financial period to 30 November 2014 £2.3m was recognised (2013: £nil).

d) Revenue recognition

Significant management judgement is applied in determining the allocation and timing of the recognition of revenue on contracts. In this process management takes into account milestones, actual work performed and further obligations and costs expected to complete the work. Management monitors the progress and has regular dialogue with customers to confirm the project status.

Where self published titles have an element of pre funded development costs obtained through crowd funding sources, recognition is made by reference to delivery of individual pledge levels. Revenue stemming from the sale of 'early versions' of a game are recognised at the date of release of the 'early version' to the expected date of full game release on a straight line basis.

Pre orders that include access to 'early versions' of a game are allocated between the estimated value of the 'final released' game, elements for future releases (expansion passes) and access to 'early version' content.

6. Risks and uncertainties

An outline of the key risks and uncertainties of the Group was described in the 2014 financial statements, including strategic, execution and financial risks associated with the Group's transition as it seeks to diversify its business base. Risk is an inherent part of doing business but the strong cash position and interest in the Elite: Dangerous offering leads the Directors to believe that the Group is well placed to manage business risks successfully.

7. Segment Information

The Group identifies reportable operating segments based on internal management reporting that is regularly reviewed by the chief operating decision maker and reported to the board. The chief operating decision maker is the Chief Executive Officer.

In order to understand the transition the business is making, additional analysis is provided in the business review – group financial performance on pages 4 and 5 of the products and services by identifying contributions to gross profit.
